

This chapter was translated for <http://nuttyisprocrasinating.wordpress.com> only. And only for those people who don't mind reading unprofessional translation that was being translated FREELY at the translator's, editor's and proofreaders' own free times.

Chapter 92.5

Breaking the Formation

After groping around for some distance, he saw tiny movement ahead, so Shang Jun gathered his courage and leaned his body against the side of a rock. After regulating his breathing for a little while, Shang Jun looked over and, not too far away upfront, saw Yan Yu and Fan Feng. Seeing that it was them, Shang Jun breathed out a sigh of relief and slowly walked out.

Just as he had come out from the rock, Yan Yu and Fan Feng noticed him, so Yan Yu came over and examined his appearance which looked like he had just experienced a difficult situation. There was a blood stain that had not yet dried on the corner of his mouth and with his pale complexion, it exposed that he had suffered a serious injury.

Yan Yu slightly furrowed his eyebrows and asked, "How is your injury?" Master deliberately confessed today that he had an injury on his body, so he had to pay more attention to him (SJ). But he had been good all along, so who could have given him this kind of injury in less than an hour?!

Shang Jun slightly gasped for air and quietly asked, "I am alright, how is it now? How about those blue-clothed men?"

Yan Yu was worriedly looking at him, while he answered, "A portion of the soldiers from Cang Yue who were in the five elements formation, had already been wiped out. The rest are inside the confused mind formation. Even though the blue-clothed men were poised for battle and extremely familiar with the formations, we were able to dispatch 20 secret bodyguards to ambush them one by one, so they could not create any more disturbance."

At this time, suddenly there were troops rushing forth from the east side and the person who was leading them was Cang Su.

Cang Su came over to the front of Shang Jun and said, "Master Shang, the heavenly dragon formation is already broken." Even though his tone was flat, it was still difficult to hide his good mood.

Shang Jun was standing rather unsteadily by the side of the rock, when his soft but still firm voice said, "Very good. Fan Feng, you go and provide support to Xi Mu. Yan Yu, break the traps arrangement in the five elements formation. Cang Su, take the remaining 500 soldiers and leave the formation, but be careful, because there will surely be an ambush outside the formation!" His voice had become weaker and weaker; when Cang Su had been listening to his words, he already knew there was something wrong with him. His right arm supported his waist, and he was just in time to catch Shang Jun's body from falling down.

"Master Shang?!" Shang Jun's sudden fainting startled all of the people present. Cang Su immediately supported him to lean on a rock and took his pulse. He did not speak for a very long time and tightly wrinkled his eyebrows, which caused Yan Yu to anxiously ask, "How is it, Cang Su?"

Cang Su did not speak at all, but only slightly sighed and shook his head several times. This injury was a lot more serious than the last time, because since the old injury had not healed yet, it added to this new injury. He was thinking that on this earth, Murong Shu Qing was already too much of an unusual woman, but who would have thought that the person she knew was even more unusual. For a long time, he had thought that this great mysterious, handsome, and bright Master Shang was a man, but ever since his injury last time, he now knew that 'he' was actually a woman. He indeed did not know that there was such a woman like that on this earth, so much so, that it would cause a real man to blush with shame.

Cang Su fed him medicine to protect his heart and then said to Yan Yu and Fan Feng, "Follow the deployments that Master Shang asked you to do a moment ago; I will take him out of here." The two people agilely nodded their heads and then took their troops to leave.

Cang Su gently took the unconscious Shang Jun and put him on a horse before he also got on the horse and pulled out his belt to tie him to himself. As to what he had said earlier, they might still be fighting outside the formation, so he was determined to protect Shang Jun thoroughly. Pulling on the reins properly, Cang Su faced the 500 elite soldiers behind him and asked with a loud voice, "There are at least 10,000 more hidden troops outside, are you guys afraid?"

"Not afraid!" Going through a day of fierce battles, these elite troops who were originally not organized together and were not mutually familiar with each other, now appreciated and acknowledged each other. This fight was immensely enjoyable, so the soldiers got on their horses one after another and waited for action.

Cang Su was satisfied as he nodded his head before firmly kicking the horse's abdomen and shouting, "Alright, rush out!" Once he finished speaking, his horse ran quickly ahead.

Those 500 elite soldiers mounted their horses as they also yelled out loud and clear, "Rush out!" After that, they followed along!

Thinking that this would be a battle of faith, Cang Su tightly held his purple silver whip in his hand, while his other hand firmly grasped the reins, causing Shang Jun to lean on his shoulder. Since Yan Yu had already broken the five elements formation, Cang Su and his team of 500 soldiers were able to come out of the formation very quickly. However, the scene in front of Cang Su startled him, as he only saw rows and rows of archers with their bows drawn approximately 99 meters away from the formation. Their arrows were directly pointed at the exit of the formation and their fiery flag waving in the wind actually displayed 'Dong Yu'.

Closely following behind Cang Su were those 500 mounted soldiers who had also tightened their reins and they found it rather incredible to be looking at the solemn troop of soldiers who were waiting. They originally thought that after they had come out, they would be confronted with a life and death battle. Even though they were not afraid, their hearts still felt solemn, but now looking at their own troops who were well-organized and formidably standing there, in just a split second, that red colored flag waving in the wind seemed to ignite their blood. Recovering from a seemingly impossible situation like this, these 500 mounted soldiers who had fought side by side, felt impassioned as they cheered and rushed over to the large army.

"General Wang!" Cang Su immediately arrived at the large banner. The person who was leading the troops this time was Deputy General Wang Shao. He had originally stayed behind at the main camp, so upon unexpectedly seeing him here, the transfer of the army was successful and breaking the battle formations would certainly and undoubtedly be a victory.

Wang Shao nodded his head, but upon noticing the unconscious Shang Jun leaning on Cang Su's shoulder, he promptly asked, "How is Master Shang?" Over these past several days, his knowledge and exquisite explanations regarding the fighting situation caused all of the people to endlessly admire him. This kind of capable person should have a lot of talent so nothing should happen to him.

Cang Su adjusted Shang Jun's position that had slid somewhat due to the bumps and said, "His injury is very heavy, so I am bringing him back to the main army now. The heavenly dragon formation and five elements formation are already broken. After the confused mind formation is broken, they should all come out one after another, but there are still approximately 5,000 Cang Yue soldiers inside."

Wang Shao said full of confidence, "I will take care of the situation here. You should immediately send Master Shang back."

Cang Su was not long-winded and so he answered, "Alright! Let's go...!" If he did not quickly get treatment for his injury, then it would be hard to protect his life. Tightening his arm to hold Shang Jun firmly to his chest, he hurriedly spurred the horse to go full speed towards the main camp.