

[This chapter was translated for <http://nuttyisprocrasinating.wordpress.com> only. And only for those people who don't mind reading unprofessional translation that was being translated FREELY at the translator's, editor's and proofreaders' own free times.

Chapter 95.1

Border City

The new year had passed, but the cold weather still lingered. The sun was blocked by thick clouds and the sky was obscure and gray; the snow fell constantly, rendering the surroundings a vast expanse. A vivid, dark black carriage escorted by eight guards, travelled along the official government road full of snow. Within the wind and snow, the group looked like a sharp long arrow, cutting through the curtain of snow while galloping away.

The day before yesterday, Xuanyuan Yi stormed into Cang Yue, and Yan Yu searched the entire army camp, but Shu Qing was not found. She was not in Cang Yue's army camp! Lin Feng Guan border had closed the city for three days, but there was no suspicious carriage leaving the city. The surrounding Lin Feng Guan border was investigated, but they could not find anything there either. Shu Qing, where have you gone to?!

"Close your eyes and rest for a while; we should arrive at the border city soon." The soft sound in his ear caused Shang Jun to feel a burst of warmth. Watching him help him (SJ) raise the mink jacket and carefully take care of it, Shang Jun was a little annoyed, a little helpless and felt some unclear emotions in his heart.

He thought he (QXZ) was gentle and courteous and could be easily persuaded, but he was wrong this time. He told him (QXZ) not to go to Cang Yue with him, but Qin Xiu Zhi just smiled and replied, "I said I would accompany you to find Shu Qing, so do you want me to go together with you or do you want to go ahead first and I will follow you?"

As a result, after two days of walking one after the other, with Qin Xiu Zhi having made the decision to follow him, Shang Jun did not have any other choice but to let him (QXZ) come along together with him.

"En." Slowly closing his eyes, Shang Jun leaned against the window to rest his mind. Although Cang Su's internal force helped him a lot, and his internal injuries had improved, Cang Su was still not a doctor and could not really heal his injuries. After running around for a few days, his chest had been aching somewhat. This time, it seems that he will have to cultivate and heal his injuries on his own for a while.

The carriage had been quickly travelling for more than an hour before it finally slowed down. Outside the carriage, the sound of footsteps along with the noise of other carriages could be heard. The carriage stopped a few meters away from the city gate and Wei Xi rode his horse over to the carriage and whispered, "Master, we have arrived at the border city, but the city gate is tightly controlled."

He had also traveled between Dong Yu and Cang Yue in the past. Due to the two countries sharing a border with each other, the people at the border city and Lin Feng Guan border had been in contact with each other for a long time, so they were rarely interrogated when they entered and exited. But it looked very different today, as the soldiers guarding the city gate had been tripled. This time, everyone who entered and exited were examined one by one, with even their belongings being checked.

Shang Jun squinted his eyes slightly and asked, "Are they not letting people in?" Could it be that they sent Murong Shu Qing into the border city, so they did not want people from Dong Yu to chase after her and wanted to strengthen their defense?!

"No, they're not letting people out." The people who entered, were only questioned, but it seemed to be a lot more difficult to get out, especially for the carriages. Not only did the people inside the carriages have to get off of their carriage, but the carriages themselves had to be searched as well, so many people were stopped at the city gate.

Not letting people out?! This was somewhat strange. It stood to reason that if they had kidnapped Murong Shu Qing, they would not let people in. In short, this city was rather strange. Shang Jun explained in a low voice, "Wei Xi, I will say that we live in Fu Xi town; we went to see an uncle at Lin Feng Guan border and are coming back now."

"Yes."

The group of men and horses began to slowly drive towards the gate; there were not many people entering the city. They were a group with strong horses, so they were quite eye-catching. Once they reached the city gate, they were immediately stopped by a young soldier who asked, "Wait, who are you? Where are you going?"

Wei Xi dismounted, cupped his hands and said with a smile, "Official, my family gentleman is from Fu Xi town. We went to Lin Feng Guan border half a month ago to visit his maternal uncle and is now just rushing back." While talking, Wei Xi hid twenty liang of silver in his hands, and pushed his sleeve into the young soldier's hand, while smiling as he quietly said, "My family gentleman is from an influential family, so here is some money for the Official."

The young soldier secretly weighed the silver in his hand, and seeing that it was fairly generous, he glanced at the carriage and asked, "Who is inside the carriage?"

"My family's two gentlemen."

Without opening the curtain, the young soldier waved his hand impatiently and said, "Go now, don't hinder us from doing our things." Anyway, their leader said that they must strictly check the carriages and horses, but did not say that they could not let them in. The task of guarding the city gate was only worth about 18 liang of silver a month, so this kind of money was really good.

"Thank you, Official." Wei Xi cast a glance upfront at Ye Yan and Ye Yan immediately led the convoy into the border city.